CALENDAR EASTER EGGS v17 — SCIENCE CIRCUIT

> The dates that rewired what we knew was possible about the living world.

ID	Symbol	Date	Significance	Rarity
`dna_day`	∞·■	Apr 25	Watson & Crick publish DNA structure in Nature, 1953	epic

`darwin_manuscript`	■→∞	Nov 24	On the Origin of Species published, 1859	epic

Lore:

- `dna_day` — April 25, 1953: two pages in Nature changed everything. Watson & Crick's double helix — the original source code. You carry it in every cell.
 - `brain_day` — July 22: World Brain Day. The annual reminder that the 86 billion neurons inside your skull are what you call "you." They run 24/7. They deserve a day.
 - `darwin_manuscript` — November 24, 1859: the book that reframed every living thing as a self-assembling, self-correcting system. Including you.

BEHAVIORAL EASTER EGGS v16 — BIO PATTERNS

ID	Symbol	Trigger	Rarity
`bio_session`	■·■·■	3+ distinct Bio-Terminal (v19) words in one journal entry	rare
`morning_pulse`	■·■	Check in before 08:00 local time 5+ times in a rolling 7-day window	epic
`body_signal`	●·■·●	Journal entry ≥ 300 words	rare

Detection:

- `bio_session` — scans entry against all 12 v19 regex patterns, counts unique matches ≥ 3
- `morning_pulse` — reads `checkin_timestamps` localStorage, filters 07:00-08:00 band, checks rolling 7-day window for 5+ occurrences
- `body_signal` — checks `entryText.split(/\s+/).length >= 300` on journal submission

Self-Care Resonance:

- `bio_session` — three biorhythm concepts in one entry means your body IS your subject
 - `morning_pulse` — five early mornings in a week is a circadian discipline
 - `body_signal` — 300 words is where the body stops performing and starts speaking

SECRET BOSS v16 – THE NEURAL VAULT

> The deepest stack. You have to know the names that rewired the field.

ID	Symbol	Trigger	Rarity
`cajal_signal`	■ ■	Write "cajal" in any entry – Santiago Ramón y Cajal	rare

| `kandel_key` | ■.■ | Write "kandel" in any entry – Eric Kandel (Nobel 2000) | epic |
| `ramachandran_rx` | ■.■.■ | Write "phantom limb" or "ramachandran" – V.S. Ramachandran | mythic |

Lore:

- `cajal_signal` – Santiago Ramón y Cajal (1852-1934) drew the neuron with his own hands. Before him, no one knew the brain was made of separate cells. He saw the invisible architecture. The neuron doctrine. Your nervous system has a name because he named it.

- `kandel_key` – Eric Kandel won the Nobel Prize in 2000 for showing that memory IS synaptic change. Learning physically alters the brain. "In Search of Memory" is his autobiography. Every journal entry is a Kandel experiment.

- `ramachandran_rx` – V.S. Ramachandran used a mirror box to cure phantom limb pain. He showed the brain is a prediction machine and that the body image in the mind can be updated. Write "phantom limb" and the vault opens.

FLAVOR TEXT – THE BIO-TERMINAL

> "Your brain is not a computer. It is the original computer. More adaptive, more error-correcting, more self-organizing than anything we have built. Self-care is the maintenance cycle."

> "Homeostasis is not stasis. It is dynamic equilibrium – a system constantly adjusting to hold something worth holding."

> "Neuroplasticity means: you are not finished. The architecture can change. The pathways are not permanent. Practice is the proof."

> "Cortisol is information. The stress response is not a malfunction. It is the body broadcasting a priority signal. The question is whether you are listening."

> "Cajal saw the neuron as a unit and the brain as a network. Before him, no one knew. After him, the question changed from 'what is the brain?' to 'how does it wire?'"

> "The vagus nerve is the longest nerve in the body. It connects brain to gut, heart, lungs. The breath that calms you is a direct message on the vagus line."

> "Watson and Crick's double helix: two pages in a journal changed what life meant. You carry that code. Every cell. The original archive."

LORE CONNECTIONS

The Bio-Terminal (v19) connects to the wider LOT badge universe:

- The Midnight Radio (v18) – frequency and biorhythm share a grammar: tuning in vs. locking rhythm
- The Quantum Library (v16) – neuroplasticity and entanglement share a grammar: change through connection
- The Neon Arcade (v17) – dopamine loop and combo system are the same architecture (reward → repeat)
- The Alchemist (v12) – homeostasis and transmutation share the grammar of return and transformation
- The Oracle (v13) – the biorhythm as prediction system; the body as oracle before external oracles existed

THEMATIC NOTE – THE BIO-TERMINAL v19

The Bio-Terminal marks the first explicitly neuroscientific vocabulary in the LOT badge system.

Previous engines drew from:

- External experience (ocean, space, narrative, radio)
- Digital/computing metaphors (terminal, arcade, quantum)
- Esoteric/symbolic registers (alchemy, oracle, spell)

v19 draws from:

- The biology of the self as lived system – cortisol, circadian, vagus, dopamine, REM
- Neuroscience as both vocabulary and self-care philosophy – the brain as rewritable, the body as intelligent
- The three Secret Bosses (Cajal, Kandel, Ramachandran) as the founders of the neuron-level view of selfhood

The word "neuroplasticity" is EPIC rarity – not because it is obscure, but because what it implies is. The brain can change. The self is not fixed. Every practice is an experiment in wiring.

"Homeostasis" was coined by Walter Cannon (1926) to describe the body's tendency toward equilibrium. It remains the most quietly radical concept in biology: the organism's default is return to balance. Self-care is not heroic correction. It is trust in the homeostatic drive.
